Version 2012-10-10

The purpose of this meetup group is to provide space for discussing the fundamental nature of human life. Any such questions are welcome, and you can see those that we have thus far considered by looking at the topics of the posted meetings.

I'm Philip Bitar, and I will facilitate the discussion. After earning a doctorate in computer science, I spent 10 years developing a comprehensive theory of human life. I published the theory in a carefully organized, tightly integrated book having seven chapters:

Knowledge, reality, religion, ethics, commerce, government, and meaning — the meaning of human life

My disposition is that of an engineer: define a problem clearly and then solve it decisively. I believe that I've achieved this in my comprehensive theory. I believe that the theory makes sense of human life in all of its ramifications and that these results are consistent with modern science and with the deepest longings of the human spirit for meaning and purpose.

If you enjoy discussing questions about the fundamental nature of human life, I invite you to join us!

And if you've ever wondered if such questions can be decisively answered, I believe that you'll be fascinated to discover that they can.
